Revelation of St. John, N. B.! Half way between Providence and Boston -for Boston is a long ways from Providence -as we were riding in a car, a still small voice, like the whistle of an engine, broke upon the air. A gentleman in the seat with is uncovered his bald head, and with a smile bade as listen. "What's that?" said

"The big organ in Boston!" said he, with a funeralic wave of his head. "The devil!" said we. "Thou shalt not profane !" said the spokesman from the hub.

"Hast been to Boston?" asked he of the silver tongue. "We hast notist," replied we then there

He looked-"poor heathen!" we must visit the Cradle of Liber asked if FRED DOUGLASS and ANNA DICK-NSON had engaged that cradle yet. He lidn't see it. He said we must visit Fanenil Hall. We asked him what nigger troupe was performing there now. He looked be wildered. Then he said we must see where Warren fell. We asked him if Warre ever got over it—the place where l .l. He appeared demoralized. He said we must hear the big organ before we left

We went to hear the big organ. It held in several buildings. It is one size larger than Boston. Boston is the hub around which the organ

The organ is a revolver. Like the organ, this is a big play of People in New York and Buffalo hear the moan of the sea. The moan is the big Boston. No such fellows are around that They don't play "straits" in Boston. Not Harvard College is just beyond the reach of the big organ.

Cambridge University is always in season.
It is a law school. The pleading is done at the bar of the Parker House.

The studies at Cambridge are said to be very dry. The studies affect the pupils. Pleading at the bar affects them likewiseor more like than wise. No one ever gets lost in Boston. The city is so well organized. Like the hig organ, Boston has numerous stops! Some of the streets are nearly as a fish pole. But not so long as Polk's message. If a man lon't like one street in Boston, it is easy to get on another. After four days trial we could go from the Parker House to the City Hall without getting lost! This is a fact! And in five days we learned the route from Scotlary's Building to Engine-house No. 4.

he business blocks in Boston are in shar ike Norwegian shoes, The streets of Boston are like hop-poles truck by lightning. Some of them are wide that a cow could be milked in them by urning her on her back and sitting astride

"her broket. Small horses are driven abreast-large borses tandem, in Boston. The fat woman was exhibited there once -in the big organ. oston streets are not so crooked as they night be. The sun has warped them traight. Very clean is Boston. If a lady drops a pin from her clothes, policeman makes her pick it up. If a man shoots au apple-seed out of a grocery he is fined.' Bost ton is very neat—especially near the big or-gan, and cradle of liberty. If a man drops remark, he is made to pick it up. And Boston people are so modest. They under-rate themselves terribly. The screets of Poston must have been thrown in at the time of some big fire. The are so regular. If you would find any place, start in an opposite direction. If you see policeman coming toward you, he is goi the other way. If he runs from you, he be where you are in no time. Up hill down, and "over there" is "back here." One day we started from the office of th Boston Past to the Boston post-office, seventy feet distant. We walked straight ahead went around seven blocks, saw a policema standing in a door-way on each blockasked each one the route to the post-offic Saw the eighth policeman-asked him p litely. Said he: "Look here, this is the eighth time you've asked me that question-Thought the policemen must be brothers—they looked so much alike? Bather than go around the block again we went 'tother way, began to unwind, and got into the postoffice by mistake. The front of the building is inside-in the courts.

Except the big organ and the cradle! BEN. BUTLER spoke while we were the on the restoration policy. Went to his meeting, expecting to see his giving back silverware and other valuable Was mistaken. That kind of restoratio was not policy ! House rents are cheap in Boston. Moving is cheaper than house rent. It's all owing to the hub—the big organ and the cradle.

There is no drinking in Boston. No peculiar female characters. What is common New Bedford is to be moved into Bostor soon. By legislative enactment the mumps are to be confined to the Democrats; the cholera is to trouble only foreigners; the chicken-pox is to be confined to old hens; niggers are to have straight hair to disgrace them, and the whites are to have curly wool on their cranium to make them popular in Boston. Not forgetting the big organ and the cradle of Boston. New York is in the watch fob, the South in the breeches pocket, and the West but-tons on the tail of the coat of Boston. The sun rises in Boston-the final flagration of mundane things will begin ton, on account of the big organ and th eradle. Boston would have been laid or more regularly if the dogs of olden tim had been pointers or the cows had walked more direct paths. Therefore we see man calves in Boston. So much for tilting hoof A good place to move from, if one mo

DOCTOR CAROW'S CHOLERA SPECIFIC.

NOW THAT WE ANTICIPATE CHOLERA in our midst, it behooves us all to secure, and keep on hand, some known and effectual remedy for any emergency, and this we find in DOCTOR CAROW'S SPECIFIC, which he prescribed and used with such unbounded success, (scarcely ever losing a case.) When this scourge visited Nashville, some years past, Dr. Carow was one of our most eminent and successful physicians, and when his old friends learn this remedy can be had, thousands who have tested its virtues will not fail to have it on hand. It is no Patent Medieine, but a compound from the Prescription of this distinguished Practitioner. There can likewise be no better remedy for cholera ms-rbus, diarrhoca and dysentary.
